Thanks for using our service!

We’re glad we could help you by sending our library’s material to you! Along with your book you should have received a return mail slip; make sure you hold on to it. When you’re finished with the book, just follow the instructions on the left to return it to us. If you need to check your library account in the mean time, just head to the library’s Web page at libraries.clemson.edu and click on the “My Library Account” link. You can renew your material there if you need to keep it longer.

Don’t forget our other amazing services!

The library offers many other services for our off-campus students! You can contact the Information Services Desk directly by heading to libraries.clemson.edu and using our chat feature. The chat service is staffed from 10am to 5pm.

You can also use the “Ask a Librarian” link to find other ways to contact the Information Services Desk, including email, social media, or by phone.

If you need some more in-depth assistance with your research, you can contact your subject librarian. Follow the “Ask a Librarian” link on the home page, then click on the “subject librarian” link to find a list of librarians who can help with your difficult research needs.

And remember, if you need to view your checkouts, pay any late fees, or handle other aspects of your library account, follow the “My Library Account” link at the top of the library home page.

Thanks again for using our service! Happy researching!
